

A Simple Document

Tash

Abstract

This paper analyses a seminal equation in population biology.

1 Introduction

Blah Blah

2 Materials & Methods

A foundational equation of population biology is:

$$\frac{dN}{dt} = rN(1 - \frac{N}{K}) \tag{1}$$

It was first proposed by Verhulst in 1838 [1].

References

- [1] Pierre-François Verhulst. Notice on the law that the population follows in its growth. Corresp. Math. Phys., 10:113–126, 1838.